Course: Accounting Applications

Course Objectives

This course emphasizes double-entry accounting; methods and principles of recording business transactions; the preparation of various documents used in recording income, expenses, acquisition of assets, the incurrence of liabilities, and changes in equity; and the preparation of financial statements. The use of computers and appropriate software is required.

Course: Economics and Financial Services

Course Objectives

This course presents basic topics in economics, including the principles and practices of banking, credit, and consumer lending in the United States. Additional emphasis is placed on money, credit and banking, economic growth and stability, characteristics of different economic systems and institutions. Students become familiar with the major functions of banks and other financial intermediaries, central banking by the Federal Reserve System, and modern trends in the finance industry. The students are also introduced to credit functions, principles of credit risk evaluation, loan creation, debt collection, and stocks and bonds.

Course: Personal Finance

Course Objectives

This course develops an awareness of the need for care and organization in planning for the wise use of economic resources and financial products available through a study of savings, credit, insurance, banking, investing and financial goals. The students are also made aware of the career opportunities offered in financial services.

Please note that I do travel and attend meetings more than a normal instructor but will not affect instruction for the student.
